

E 1

W

A D

PONTMERCY

Sergeant Thénardier. I'll remember you. And you remember me. Colonel Pontmercy. If we both survive... you can call on me. I swear it.

He loosens his hold and falls back. And

One of the GUAR

JAVE

From outside th

JEAN VALJEAN

No answer.

JAVERT

If you were trying t

JEAN VALJEAN

No answer.

JAVERT

No answer. You have twelve months to serve. My guess: you'll be back in here before another year's gone by. And next time, it'll be for life. What's your guess?

JEAN VALJEAN stares him out.

He brings his face very close to

The gallant Sergeant Thénardier, who saved the life of Colonel Pontmercy. And who proudly stands before you today! Rosalie! My jacket!

MADAME THENARDIER proudly passes his military jacket and hat.
THENARDIER puts them on. A silver cross glitters on the jacket.

THENARDIER ge

How do you like that, now the boot's on the other foot? You're getting a taste of your own medicine now!

PONTMERCY

NI COLETTE

N

Look a FAVORI TE

At the opportune moment, FEL

Dirty,

FELIX

Nor should you. Nor should you.
Think of life. Think of love.

FANTINE

Do you really love me, Felix?

FELIX

I loved you the first moment I set eyes on you. I th

(Any attempt wi

And no more of those sullen looks,
or you'll feel the back of my hand!

NICOLETTE lifts him out of his high chair, and starts to lead him off.

GILLENORMAND (CONT'D)

Wait! Come and give your Grandpapa a kiss.

He bends down and indicates his cheek and the little boy gives him a kiss.

GILLENORMAND (CONT'D)

That's a good boy. Good night.

JEAN VALJEA

JAVERT

(softly)

A common error. The prisoner calculated the sum from the number of days of imprisonment, not the number of working days. After deductions for days not worked, that is to say Sundays and public holidays, and contributions to the annual Christmas dinner, the sum comes to one hundred and nine francs. Spend it wisely.

He hands a purse to the GUARD, who ha

FOREMAN

All right. You look strong.

FANTINE

What is it, Felix? You're not yourself today.

FELIX

Ah, you know me. I get these silly fancies.

FANTINE

What sort of fancies?

FELIX

That one day I'll co

FELIX

All right. Change of subject.
Listen: my friends and I have arranged a surprise for you, and your friends. Next Sunday. A special outing. All day.

FANTINE

All day?

JV turns and s

JEAN VALJEAN
Where am I to go?

INNKEEPER
I don't care where you go. Anywhere but here.

After a long pause, JV gets up and goes out.

---

OLD LADY
What are you d

They weren't like yo

MADAME MAGLOIRE
Lord save us!

SERGEANT Monseigneur.

The BISHOP rises.

SERGEANT (CONT'D)
This man was arrested ten miles away with a quantity of silverware in his knapsack, whi

BI SHOP

FELIX
Now. How about. .

I'd go crazy, I'd come after you and scratch your eyes out, I'd have you arrested!

BLACHEVELLE

Truly? You'd have me arrested?

FAVORITE

Well I'd make a terrible fuss.
You're a pig to even think of it!
You don

What

ZEPHINE

FELIX (CONT'D)
Well, luckily I've booked us somewhere excellent and very near here!

Cries of: Hurrah!

ZEPHINE
Is that the surprise?

FELIX
Wait and see.

1/59

1/59

---

A large private dining room. It's late afternoon with a magnificent July sunbeam glancing across the windows.

Two tables, one holding a pile of hats, shawls, and posies.
At the other, our three COUPLES

PETI T-GERVA

CONCIERGE

Good as gold, and I hope you were too, mademoiselle!

FANTINE

(over her shoulder)
Aren't I always?